

Rebook matrix

An interface for managing ERP product rebookability.

- Rebook Matrix

Rebook Matrix

This page acts as an interface for managing what product types can be rebooked into what other product types.

After a product type is selected, a switch is displayed for each available product type. These switches can be used to toggle, if products of the selected product type can be rebooked into any of displayed product types.

Two shortcut buttons are shown between the drop-down menu and the switch collection. These two buttons can be used to quickly enable or disable rebooking of selected product type into all other product types.