

Releases

The ERP system is continuously being improved, new features and bug fixes are being implemented. When an new version of the ERP is ready (one that includes implemented features and/or important corrections), the development team releases it to "production", updating the liver version of the page. When this happens, a pop-up appears in the middle of any ERP page, currently open.

When the "new release pop-up" appears, you can either choose to "Refresh now", which refreshes your current page, or you can "Continue and refresh later". The second option is available for cases when forms or other information is already filled out and refreshing the page would mean losing all of it.

Currently, after a new release, every tab has to be refreshed separately. This is designed for cases when multiple important forms are being edited at once.
